JIM KARDATZKE, Bureau of Indian Affairs: Good morning. We're here today, in Manchester, New Hampshire. We are here to talk about proposed hydroelectric licensing rules.

It is nearly ten o'clock. This was scheduled for nine o'clock. Phone calls have been made to representatives of regional tribes to be certain no one is on their way. Well, it looks like it's a no show. There are no tribes represented here today.

So, thank you to our Stenographer and to the members of the panel. That will be all.
