

Welcome. My name is Eddie Ribas and I'm the Chief Human Capital Officer at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. I want to congratulate you on considering future employment opportunities with us at FERC. FERC has continually been a leader in developing and implementing the policies that guide this country's energy markets, and as a result, has proven to be an exciting, challenging and rewarding place to work. And, the future looks even more dynamic as FERC is ranked in the top 5 Best Places to Work rankings among mid-sized agencies and consistently ranks #1 in work-life balance.

At FERC, you will have the opportunity to work with some of the most talented people in government. Our team of technical professionals is shaping the future of the energy industry. From Environmental Protection Specialists, to Attorneys and Economists, we employ a diverse workforce that works collaboratively to ensure that the industry delivers reliable, efficient and sustainable energy, impacting the daily lives of all Americans. Public service is an honorable career. I have spent most of my professional career in public service and have found it deeply rewarding. FERC has a noble purpose--serving the public interest. If you join us, you will certainly have an opportunity to make an impact.

We hope you explore our site for testimonials from our employees, information on current openings and more. Thank you and good luck in your employment search.
